neas will such a reasonable cost as the bathroom. With the major part of their efforts during the last three years concentrated on modernization work, plumbing contractors have perfected the technique of bathroom rejuvensition. Replacement work has been speeded up and the entire 50s can be accomplished with little or no inconvenience to family routing improved piping materials and fixtures especially adapted for modernization work, as well as more efficient methods of installation, all aid in speeding up the work and reducing the cost.

It is not necessary for the home owner to deal separately with different tradesime whose work is involved in bathroom modernization work.

The King Escaped. The Important fact of the attempt note

ipon the life of King Edward is its Colum-Hul behind that is another little of feet, even more important in its way.

The late King George was provided the ausion be followed of appearing unprotected before his beloved people. The new king, even more democratic in his habits before he came to the throne, presumably policy of showing implicit confidence.

In all probability, the attempted assessination will change all that. King Edward has been placed on the defensive. Henceforth, his public appearances will be muce of a strain. His political advisers will have a sharpened sense of caution. The unsuccessful attempt of one mentally confused man to commit political murder has knocked out the main prop from one of England's most pleasant practices.

Secrecy Not Wanted.

Two disturbing rumous about the federal bureau of investigation recently bave been heard. One, that Democratic Mr. Farley like to replace J. Edgar Honver, FBI head, with a "regular" party man, Two, that secret service men have been Investigating the G-men, particularly the expenditures of FBI in its crime fighting work and the killing of a Dillinger gangster. Both tumors are only tumors, but they are ugly enough to warrant decisive con firmstion or denial. The possibility that the two reports are related, that secret sarvice agents may have been instructed to look for evidence discrediting the FBI, is no less disturbing. It is hard to believe that Mr. Farley, usually on astute weigher of political proand cons, should so misjudge public centiment as to think he could apply his patronage practices to the FBI without arousing great indignation. It is still more diffi-cult to believe that government agents could be used to manufacture avidence against one hareau that has won public acclaim

If Mr. Houves were incompetent, which certainly he does not appear to be, a conscientious government other comes than to appoint his auccessor on the basis of fliness. If FBI has spent money extravogantly, congress has the power to judge and condemn by way of appropriation bills.

The O-men's work may have been dramatized-against Mr. Hoover's will-but praise of their accomplishments has been singularly non-partison. Mr. Fatley may not have even the ramotest connection with the rumore, but it appears to be his duty to make a statement.

The Tides.

An old lifes about politics is beginning to command an important amount of interest. Raymond Moley, friend and adviser to President Rousevelt, expressed it in a recent speech when he said the country was "fed up" on reform, tried of radicalism and ready to swing back to conservation.

In 1920 Americans, wenry of the excitement of new and stronge things in their affairs, railled quickly to a candidate who was pledged to the exciting task of restoring 'normaley," In 1932 a candidate who seemed to be committed to a program of action and reform easily gaught the publics Janey in the opposite direction,

The tides of politics were junning strongly both years. In retrospect it seems plain that nothing could have been done to resist them. President Wilson, after two terms, found little enthusiasm for continuing his policies even in his own party. President Hoover, it is generally conceded was the butt of popular discontent. He was defeated by force, beyond his control. There have been times upon a seemed President Receively, as though consciously riding a polit, it tide, would try to transfer from an outgoing tide of referm to an incoming tide of conscivate in and stability Subsequently, it appeared as though he had decided to continue with reform. Apparently, he discounted the possible strength of public reaction to the continued excite ment and restlessness engendered by his policy of 'ferward to anywhere The Ptesident may have guessed wrong He may continue to guess wieng. He may be unwilling to take his chances with corservatism; he may be incapable of chang-ing the complexion of his administration H Mr. Moley knows what he is talking about, if others who agree with Mr. Moley are correct to their operation that the country is tired of referant the electron of 1936 may be received as one more in which the incumbent candidate was evercome to a tide of popular sentiment running in the apposite direction.

yet, but the frend of testimony indicates that a tenfative verdict might be given rates effective since June 1. One controld, the Reading Co. has reported its passenger revenue for June this year 32 per cent over the same month in 1985. Many other cartery roads haven't completed calculations yet, but estimates from 27 of them pudiests at least a 8 per cent gain over dune a year ago Such evidence is not concluded nor does nectronity justify the decreased rates. Blowly rising business indexes throughout the country might account for a modest gain of 6 per cent. To counteract that gain many contless may have increased their payroll and equipment costs to accommodate the extra load of passengers. On the other hand, there is good reason for hoping-with the Rending company's figures as an example—the inthroads may do better thin break even. Yet even if the increased revenue equals only the extra cost of operation, one gain remains. The rates may have been imposed arbitrarily in the first place. Long term experlence, when passenger enthusiasm for cheap traveling has cooled, may warrant further consideration of the matter. But in the meantime, the public is tracfitting. More persons are packing the trains-and buses, for that matter-than have done so for many years. Once more low prices are altracting "consumers" into the market. If aventually finencial statements instity continuance of the low rates, everybody should he happy.

Father Coughlin's Speech.

By BAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright, 1978, by The Bartien Blar.

WASHIDSTON July 12.—Pather Coughthe as of the term his and netrayer, in referring to President Rosewelt will probably rome as somewhat of a chock to most people who are necessared to speaking pathenty at least in more restrained words shout candidates for positival office.

But Pather Coughlin was addressing a political for entire, and was presumably epeaking as a coluen in a political contest and most at member of the clergy.
Monehow or other, the word 'liar has become an integral part of political campaigning and may be read to be a permanping form of the political campaigning and may be read to be a permantipart of the political to anothery of the day. Thus free but Bosenwelt, on May 14, 1880, in a special to a farmers' convention which githered on the White House laws, said.

ton which gainered on the White House awn, and awn, and had awn, a great many of the high and mighty-with appellul axes to grind-rawe been deliberately trying to mislead he people who know nothing of farming by mistepresenting no-why use e puspy for word to by lying about the kind of farm program which this nation is operating to-The President was characterizing critical the AAA program, and the definition (a lie, we given by Webstel's dictionary, as follows A falsehood aftered or acted for

"I A falsemood intered or acted for the purpose of deception, an intentional statement of an untruth designed to mis-lead another. The use of the word the usually implies moral consure and a charge of intention to affect wrongfully the acts, optimis, or affections of another. "2 Late A person who knowingly utters at falsehood one who lies."

In Italieshood one who liva."

Now, in political debate in the past, President Rouseveit had a precedent for describing those who disagreed with him as lying It will be recalled that President Theodora Rouseveit created what he called the Anamas club, which is described by F. L. Puxson in his recent history of the United States.

"The political method of President Theodora Rouseveit was switt and effective, Again and again he defended himself by denying the correctness of autematic by denying the correctness of autematic Ferritage in 1904 was a typical lineature. E. It. Harritman was later brought within the group, and the cartennials derived much pleasure from their literary creation, he Ananias club," into which no man was admitted until the President had openly chiled him a flar."

Now, Father Coughlus might have used some of the passyteot words which are, of course, frequently employed in political discussion when opponents are accused of being "inconsistent" or at least of so,ing "contradictory" (things. Thus, Mr. Roosecussion when opponents are accurated to being "inconsistent," or at least of so,ing "contradictory" things. Thus, Mr. Roose-velt's recent of public stements on many questions would appear in some tespects to be inconsistent, and, when the term is used, the public at least gets the impres sion that pathaps there is some explanation for the inconsistency and that the mon who has made the inconsistent statements at

The question of how far deception may be excused on the ground of political justification is one that will be answered differently, depending on whether it is asked in political circles on among the citizens generally. The latter are inclined rather strongly to the idea that there is no different code in private life floan in public life, the hypocitay and misrepresentation and "inconsistency" of speech are as much to be deplored when prompted by desires of political expediency as when made in reckless stafement by private persons.

As for Father Couchille, he might have used a pusylout word and received less criticism. Somehow, a member of the cloth speaking out positively in just the same way that the political orations do is somewhat of an unusual speciacle. If some Republican had used the ward "lie" in charging the new deal candidate with inconsistency, probably the meident would investationed little if any aftention. Father Coughlin, by reason of his dual position as clergyman and political orator, will undountedly be criticized as having been indiscreet, though his friends will doubtless say that he had as much right to discreptions. though his friends will indiscreet, though his friends will doubt-less any that he had as much right to dis-cuss the personality and sincerity of a can-didate for high office as any other clinen. The incident is regrettable because it puts the campaign on a personal basis when it really ought to be fought out on issues rather than personalities.

WASHINGTON, July 18—Few politicians would think of black-jacking contributions out of fedral employes in this entlightened age, at least not with a black-jack. It just is antericket, and furthermore, there is a law against it in some cases. But there is no law senior toylder fed. is no law against liviting fed-cial employes to buy something af value, any, a book, or even a blank sheet of paper, from a political organization. political organization. That would not only be cricket but the slick-cal way of raising campaign funds.

Consequently, one luw-salaried federal employe was not aurprised to receive the other day an unusual letter from a campaign committer. It offered blin the Philadelphia Democratic convention book for the modest sam of $2.50. There was nothing particularly strange about that, but dignificantly stranged on the ictre was the number, 4.931, or one near that.
